Fashion Placements in London

There is no question that London has come to rival Paris and Milan as a primary center for the European fashion industry. Twice a year, buyers go to London to see the newest trends for the upcoming season at the London Fashion Week. In order to make your Fashion experience in London the most rewarding, we have created start dates that coincide with the most exciting and interesting periods in London's fashion industry calendar. This schedule enables interns to experience the fashion industry during some of the most important times of the year. Please visit our London Internship Program page to learn more about program costs, duration, etc. It is important to note that responsibilities will vary based on your experience in the field and duration of your internship.
